Title VI Retaliation

It is illegal for ROANE COUNTY GOVERNMENT to "retaliate" against service recipients because they filed a charge of discrimination or because they complained to another entity about program services discrimination, or because they participated in a discrimination proceeding (such as an investigation or lawsuit).

Further, it is illegal for ROANE COUNTY GOVERNMENT to refuse to provide program services because a service recipient filed a charge of discrimination with an entity such as this agency, or Tennessee Human Rights Commission, or Tennessee Department of Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services, or the Federal Office of Civil Rights, even if later it was determined that no discrimination occurred.

Should a service recipient feel that they are being retaliated, they have the right to submit a complaint to an entity that they feel most comfortable with for review and resolution.
